RESEARCH PROJECTS AT OSU

Tribal Identity and Public Goods Provision in Jordan

- Collected Data on surname-tribe associations using self-reported user-level information from a social media platform
- Used Arabic-language tribal dictionaries to develop additional surname-tribe associations
- Recovered data from Jordanian voter registries and local election results to estimate election turnout figures across the country

Evaluating Measures of Democracy

- Designed a project to evaluate Freedom House (FH)'s regime classification as a valid measurement of democracy
- Employed text analytic techniques such as term-category association, topic modelling, and original dictionary creation to compare changes in FH reports to changes in FH indices

Election Boycotts and Voter Turnout in Electoral Autocracies

Paper Title: Nothing to gain, nothing to lose: Expected electoral gains and the decision to boycott

Presented at the Midwestern Political Science Association Annual Conference in April 2022

- Designed a study that examined the conditions under which opposition parties boycott elections in electoral autocracies.
- Made use of various datasets (IDEA, V-Dem, NELDA, DPI) that track opposition party characteristics and information about elections in autocratic settings

Voter Turnout in Electoral Autocracies

- Designed a study examining the economic determinants of voter turnout in electoral autocracies
- Examined literature on voter turnout, voter confidence, and political trust
- Used various statistical techniques to analyze data (IDEA, V-DEM, DPI, NELDA) on economic trends and voter turnout in a global sample

Experiences with Violence and Attitudes toward Syrian Refugees in Lebanon

The Ohio State University

- Designed a study examining the long term effects of civil war violence on public opinion toward Syrian refugees
- Cleaned and analyzed survey data from Lebanon as well as data on violence occurring during the Lebanese Civil War (UCDP)
- Used regression techniques to test hypotheses about experiences with violence and attitudes toward refugees
